GROUP Summer Research

The Geballe Research Opportunities for Undergraduates Program (GROUP) seeks to bring multidisciplinary research in the humanities and related fields more fully into undergraduate education. The program is a network of research courses, collaborative team projects, and summer apprenticeships. The first of the apprenticeships took place this past summer. Twelve undergraduate apprentices each worked closely with faculty members and graduate students on a research project in one of the four GROUP themes: the humanities and human rights; the humanities and new media; the humanities and the environment; and the humanities and biotechnology, health, and medicine. As part of their research, the apprentices traveled to locations as far-flung as Turkey and Rwanda and delved into issues as varied as industrial pollution in nineteenth-century America and the digitization of indigenous music forms. We caught up with some of the students as they returned from their summer’s work and asked them to describe the experience.

Sun Lee worked with Professors David Cohen (Rhetoric) and Eric Stover (Human Rights Center) on a case study for their project, “The End of Impunity? Crimes against Humanity and International Justice in the twenty-first Century.”

Townsend Center: What was the project and what was your role in it?

Sun Lee: The overall project is a book on transitional justice — after genocide and civil wars, how do you deal with the aftermath? My research project was specifically on Rwanda. What’s happening in Rwanda is that after the 1994 genocide, they have a community justice system called the gacaca, and basically I was there to see what was going on and to analyze what kind of justice it was. In the gacaca people are released from prison if they agree to tell the truth about what happened. So I was sitting in on trials, and when trials weren’t happening I went to different sites to see the effect of the gacaca and how it affected the interaction between the members of the community.

I tried to get a variety of activities that were going on with the gacaca — not only going to the courts and the information gathering sessions, but for example I was able to go to a site where they were digging old bodies up and be there when that happened. So I got to see what kind of effects gacaca had on the community and what it might lead to.

TC: Did you find that it’s important to people that this is something that comes out of their own tradition rather than a legal tradition that’s being imposed on them?

SL: A lot of people seemed optimistic about gacaca and they’re very enthusiastic about the fact that gacaca was being used since it is their own tradition. They acknowledge the fact that it’s not going to be perfect. They have different ideas about justice and what it is. And a lot of people seem to look at it not just for personal reconciliation but because this is best for Rwanda, this is best for the country.

TC: I take it you expect this to be a part of your future work?

SL: Yes, I’m definitely interested in this type of work. This is my first real project, and so it really gave me the confidence to do more even on my own, to go back to different countries and see more for myself before I go on to law school or grad school.

Ian Cheng worked on a project called “Visualizing Processes of Theoretical Biology” with Professors Greg Niemeyer (Art Practice) and Terry Deacon (Anthropology).

Townsend Center: What was your role on this project?

Ian Cheng: Primarily what I was doing was helping Terry out to visualize his theory about how complexity and self-sustaining organisms form from chaos. It’s a very abstract process without visual aids, and so it was my job to visualize this. I suggested making a simulation whereby users could experience what was going on. It was my hope with this simulation that users could just have everything manifest itself through their own control and could get a really good hands-on feel for it.

TC: What stands out the most for you about the project?

IC: I’m an art and cognitive science double-major and it was almost miraculous that this project fell into place, because for a long time I was having a lot of difficulty trying to marry the two majors. And this project kind of jelled the two together for me.

TC: Looking at your own creation, do you feel like you have a better sense of Terry’s theory?

IC: Definitely. I had to go along a learning curve. Having to go to such depths to understand it and to make it, I definitely understand it a lot better.

Justin Laue worked with Professor Sally Fairfax (College of Natural Resources) on “The Historic Portrayal of National Park ‘Friends,’” studying, among others, Glacier National Park.

Townsend Center: Describe the project and your role on it.

Justin Laue: Professor Fairfax is working on a larger program about profit and national parks, and where I came in was to provide the historical background on this and the way the parks were advertised by profit-seeking corporations.

TC: What did you find out?

JL: I found that it depends on the park. It’s actually surprisingly complex and orchestrated. Certain parks, for example Yosemite, Yellowstone, the big powerful ones, they had such a corporate influence. You can see that today. You can see Camp Curry, which is the camping spot in Yosemite, was created by someone back then who said, “I think we should have these tents here.” The government said, “Sure go ahead, put those in.” In Yellowstone they had a giant hotel built by the railroads. Some parks, like Mesa Verde, which is Indian ruins in South Colorado, had no railroads running nearby. The railroads didn’t waste their money advertising Mesa Verde, and consequently you can see that Mesa Verde has nothing really to show for it. There’s no hotels built there, there are no decent roads, and nobody visited it.

TC: How did you find this information?

JL: It was a combination of everything. It was a lot of fun. When I started out, I really didn’t know that much. I had been to National Parks, and I kind of knew really roughly where they came from. But Professor Fairfax and a GSR who works with her recommended some books for me to look at. And those gave a rough history of the parks system. So I started with that and then I did work in the library, so I got a good sense of how the archival system works there. Sometimes I just got magazines that I knew had advertising from that era, and I’d just look through them.

TC: How did you come into the project?

JL: My advisor sent me an email saying the GROUP projects would be a great opportunity for the summer to do some quality research. It’s amazing how one little email turned around my whole summer. My friends are saying, “I’m sitting in a cubicle making copies for some big I-banking corporation when you’re going to Glacier National Park in Montana and talking to rangers and doing all this cool stuff.”
TC: Is this project something you’re going to build on?

JL: I will definitely build on it. I could see myself maybe down the road getting a master’s thesis in this particular field. It really opened my eyes to academic research, which is something I never really saw before.

Kristin Birdsong worked with Professor Sue Schweik (English) on a project titled “Gifted and Talented Programs in Public Schools.”

Townsend Center: What did you do for this project?

Kristin Birdsong: Basically we looked at the notion of the gifted child as a status similar to disability from a social standpoint, in terms of the fact that you’re put into a category. Originally I had tried to look at No Child Left Behind legislation and how that has affected policy and how schools are reevaluating their needs, and as soon as I started the research I realized that I couldn’t start there, so the project really evolved quite a bit in the first month. There really isn’t a gifted education policy anywhere. It’s this huge fluid experiment, and that’s pretty much been the purpose of my study: looking at legislation on all levels, from national to the states, looking at local school districts and various schools and looking at the ways it’s interpreted, because it’s all left open to interpretation, very much unlike IDEA legislation, which requires that certain things are in place for special education students.

In Louisiana, where I’m from, a gifted child is considered underneath the umbrella of special education, so they have to have trained specialists who are actually certified in gifted education. In California, there’s nothing like that. Not to say that California doesn’t serve these kids, because they do, but they’re categorized differently.

What do you do for excellence, when you’re supposed to have equality in public education? That was the focus of this project—what are the policy issues, and fiscally speaking, where does the money come from?

TC: Do you see this work as leading towards something down the road?

KB: Definitely. I realized I need to do a lot more research. I’m definitely leading toward a yearlong research project that would really do justice to this project.

It’s something that has kind of perked my ears — whenever I hear anything about disability studies, my ears perk up. It’s definitely something that I’ll be maintaining an interest in.

The Townsend Center is very pleased to hear that these projects presented such an exciting and successful experience for the students, and that they produced such excellent results. A session is planned for later in the fall semester when all the student apprentices will have a chance to present the outcome of their summer’s work. Look for details in our next newsletter.

Illuminations is an online publication highlighting current research in the arts and humanities by faculty and students in the College of Letters and Science and elsewhere at UC Berkeley.

Each month Illuminations features current research of an individual or group at Berkeley, elucidating their original interpretation of a text or other cultural phenomenon, or their creation of a new artistic work.

Illuminations also brings to light the achievements of significant scholars past at Berkeley, as part of the Berkeley arts and humanities legacy.

Look for a new profile at the beginning of each month at http://illuminations.berkeley.edu.
TOWNSEND FELLOWSHIPS.

Support research of individual recipients. Recipients form a fellowship group together with several tenured faculty. Eligibility: Ph.D. students advanced to candidacy by June 2006; Assistant Professors. Award: Graduate student fellows: full-year fellowship of $18,000 (excluding tuition, fees, or any additional costs). Assistant Professors: 50% course relief.

GROUP COURSES.

Grants for the development of interdisciplinary undergraduate courses on one of four themes: humanities and the environment; humanities and human rights; humanities and new media; humanities and biotechnology, health, and medicine. Eligibility: Ladder faculty. Preference given to joint proposals from faculty in different departments. Award: $12,000 total replacement costs to the department(s) of the organizer(s). $5,000 in course enhancement costs for visiting lecturers, field trips, etc.

TOWNSEND/MELLON STRATEGIC WORKING GROUPS – STAGE I.

Strategic Working Groups provide a framework for interdisciplinary thinking about curricular innovations in new research areas. Groups meet every week for a semester to come up with a written plan for programmatic innovations intended to strengthen undergraduate and graduate teaching and research. Eligibility: Proposals for groups are invited from any two ladder-faculty members, normally from separate departments. Award: Replacement costs for up to seven participants per funded group. Groups also receive up to $5,000 for visitors or other activity related to their work, as well as up to $5,500 for graduate research assistance. NB: A Stage II competition (deadline March 6, 2006), will appoint individual participants to join the group’s organizers.

TOWNSEND DEPARTMENTAL RESIDENCIES.

Intended to target persons who can enrich academic programs but who may not necessarily be academics. Provide a stipend and travel expenses for a one-month stay. Eligibility: Humanities and related departments can nominate writers or artists in the earlier stages of their careers, promising journalists, or persons with careers in public service. Non-U.S. scholars and others who would be less likely to visit Berkeley through other residency programs are particularly encouraged. Award: A stipend of $10,000 and modest travel expenses are awarded to the department hosting the resident. The department serves as the official host of the resident, and arranges all logistical aspects of the resident’s visit.

Information about how to apply to these programs is available on the Center’s website: http://townsendcenter.berkeley.edu.

Other Funding Deadlines

Once again, we urge faculty and graduate students to remember the fall deadlines for fellowship funding for the academic year 2006–2007. The Townsend Center provides a list of fellowship programs on our website and in print:

http://townsendcenter.berkeley.edu.

Graduate students seeking dissertation funding are urged to consult the Graduate Division:

www.grad.berkeley.edu.

Faculty are reminded especially that the deadline for the 2006-2007 President’s Research Fellowships in the Humanities is October 14, 2005. For a description of the fellowship and application materials, visit:

www.ucop.edu/research/prfh/.
WORKING GROUPS
OCTOBER ACTIVITIES

The Townsend Center Working Groups program brings together, from various fields and departments, faculty and graduate students with shared research interests.

For descriptions and updates on the groups’ activities, please visit: http://townsendcenter.berkeley.edu/working_groups_list.shtml.

Agency and Literature
Contact: Andrew Leong, andrew_leong@berkeley.edu, or Sara Ruth Lorenz, srlorenz@berkeley.edu
The group discusses the role of agency in a specifically literary context, though in intersection with other disciplines, as it relates to questions of aesthetics, ethics, and social utility. Under examination also is the question of whether the ambiguity and irreducibility of literature brings any unique aspects of the concept of agency under consideration.
October 6 (Thursday), 1:00 pm, 4104 Dwinelle Hall. The group will meet to discuss selected readings in preparation for the conference “Agency in/and/via Literature” (October 21 and 22). The readings will be available in 4125 Dwinelle a week in advance.

American and Postcolonial Studies
Contact: Kelvin Black, kcblack@berkeley.edu, or Stephanie Hays, shays@berkeley.edu

Ancient Philosophy Working Group
Contact: Jessica Gelber, jlouise@berkeley.edu, or Joseph Barnes, plush@berkeley.edu

Armenian Studies Working Group
Contact: Stephan H. Astourian, astour@berkeley.edu

Asia-Latin America Working Group
Contact: Andrew Leong, andrew_leong@berkeley.edu
The goal of the group is to encourage interdisciplinary discussion of issues posed by migration and cultural exchange between Asia and Latin America. Besides conducting monthly reading roundtables, the group will organize film screenings and an end-of-year colloquium.
October 12 (Wednesday), 12:00 noon, 4104 Dwinelle Hall. The group will meet to discuss selected readings. Copies of the reading will be available in the French & Comparative Literature office, on Floor D of Dwinelle Hall.

Asian Art and Visual Cultures
Contact: Teresa Sun, ampearl@berkeley.edu, or Kelsey Bostwick, kboss@berkeley.edu
The aim of this group is to interrogate the differential relationship between political and aesthetic endeavors within Asian Pacific American cultural production.
October 22 (Thursday), 5:00 pm, IAES Conference Room, 2223 Fulton Street, 6th Floor. Angela Howard (Art History, Rutgers University) will speak.

Asian Pacific American Politics and Aesthetics
Contact: Marguerite Nguyen, mbnguyen@berkeley.edu, or Janice Tanemura, janaako@berkeley.edu
This group explores how Asian American literature might be discussed in conjunction with broader trajectories of literary criticism.
October 20 (Thursday), 4:00 pm, location TBA. The group will meet to discuss Arif Dirlik’s “The Asia-Pacific Idea: Reality and Representation in the Invention of a Regional Structure.” Please contact the group to receive copies.

Berkeley and Bay Area Early Modern Studies Group
Contact: Catherine Burris, (510) 384-0769 or cburris@berkeley.edu

Berkeley Film Seminar
Contact: Kristen Whissel, kwhissel@berkeley.edu

Berkeley New Music Project
Contact: Loretta Notareschi, (510) 642-2678, notaresc@yahoo.com, or Aaron Einbond, einbond@berkeley.edu

Berkeley-Stanford British Studies Group
Contact: Caroline Shaw, shawcaroline@yahoo.com, or James Vernon, jvern@berirates.berkeley.edu

BTWH: The Question of German Modernism
Contact: Sabrina Rahman, skrahman@berkeley.edu, or Chad Denton, cdenton@berkeley.edu
Consisting of members from Berkeley, Tuebingen, Vienna, and Harvard universities, BTWH explores questions of German modernity and welcomes members from all disciplines providing they have a working knowledge of German. Throughout the year the group shares its work with international colleagues over the internet and meets once a year for a conference.
October 7 (Friday), 2:00 pm, 370 Dwinelle Hall. Clemens Ruthner (Austrian Visiting Professor at the Wirth Institute, University of Alberta) will speak on “Kakanien revisited: ‘Postcolonial’ approaches to Central European Literature/s and Culture/s around 1900.”
October 7 (Friday), 4:00 pm, 370 Dwinelle Hall. Clemens Ruthner and Sabrina Rahman (German) will lead a workshop on postcolonial approaches to Austrian cultural studies.

California Studies Lectures
Contact: Delores Dillard, deloresd@berkeley.edu, or Richard Walker, walker@socrates.berkeley.edu
The group meets once a month at the faculty club for informal dinner gatherings. Anyone interested in topics about the state of California is invited to attend. A guest speaker is featured at each event.
October 18 (Tuesday), 7:00 pm, Lewis/Latimer Room, Men’s Faculty Club. Gerald Haslam (Sonoma State University) will speak on “Workin’ Man’s Blues, aHistory of Country Music in California.”
WORKING GROUPS

OCTOBER ACTIVITIES

Childhood Studies Working Group
Contact: Jelani Mahiri, mahiri@snowy.sscl.berkeley.edu, or Josefina Carpena-Mendez, finacm@berkeley.edu

Consortium on the Novel
Contact: Karen Leibowitz, kdl@berkeley.edu, or Orna Shaughnessy, oes@berkeley.edu

Contemporary Poetry and Poetics
Contact: Margeret Ronda, mronda@berkeley.edu, or Jessica Fisher, jmfisher@berkeley.edu
The group will focus on the relation of poetry to poetics and critical inquiry. We are particularly interested in examining how the poem can be a form of criticism, a theoretical apparatus, and an agent of historical change. We also aim to engage the question of the historical, political, and interdisciplinary context of the discourse of poetics.
October 13 (Thursday), 4:00 pm, 306 Wheeler Hall. The group will meet to discuss the critical work of Susan Howe. Please contact the group to receive copies of the reading.

Critical Filipina/o Studies
Contact: Gladys Nubla, gpmnubla@berkeley.edu, or Joanne Rondilla, jlrondilla@sbcglobal.net

Critical Korean Studies Group (CRIKET)

Folklore Roundtable
Contact: Kelly Revak, (510) 643-7934, ucbfolklore@berkeley.edu, or Monica Foote, mfoote@berkeley.edu
The group investigates trends in folklore research and explores the reigning paradigms and perspectives in different disciplines.
October 24 (Monday), 5:00 pm, location TBA. Roma Chatterjee (Delhi School of Economics) will speak as part of the Alan Dundes Lecture Series on “Folklore Genres and the Production of Cultural Field.”

Francophone Studies Working Group
Contact: Araceli Hernandez, (510) 847-0576, aracely@berkeley.edu, or Jean-Pierre Karegeye, karegeye@berkeley.edu

Gender in German Studies Working Group (GIGS)
Contact: Jennifer Zahrt, jzahrt@berkeley.edu, or Doug Spencer dougsparc@berkeley.edu

Graduate Film Working Group (GFWG)
Contact: Erica Levin, ericalevin@berkeley.edu, or Amy Rust, arust@berkeley.edu

Graduate Medievalists at Berkeley (GMB)
Contact: Chris Jensen, (510) 409-4543 chrisjensen@berkeley.edu, or Matt Sergi, mmsergi@berkeley.edu

History & Philosophy of Logic, Math, & Science
Contact: Fabrizio Cariani, fcariani@berkeley.edu, or John MacFarlane, jgm@berkeley.edu, http://hplms.berkeley.edu
The group provides a forum for discussion of issues in the history and philosophy of logic, mathematics, and science. Meetings are held approximately four times per semester and generally consist of a talk followed by extended discussion.
October 26 (Wednesday), 6:00 pm, 234 Moses Hall. Brian Skyrms (UC Irvine) will speak.

History and Social Studies of Medicine and the Body
Contact: Lara Freidenfelds, lara@post.harvard.edu to be included on the Med Heads email list

Identity in Central Asia
Contact: Cindy Huang, cindyh@berkeley.edu, or Dr. Edward Walker, eww@socrates.berkeley.edu
The group brings together faculty and students from the humanities and social sciences to discuss contemporary configurations of identity, including the question of Central Asia as a geographic space and unit of analysis. Meetings are held once a month and alternate between guest speakers and graduate student presentations.
October 3 (Monday), 5:30 pm, 270 Stephens Hall. The group will meet to discuss selected readings. Please contact the group to receive copies.

Interdisciplinary Genocide Working Group
Contact: Jean-Pierre Karegeye, karegeye@berkeley.edu, or Sarah Staveteig, s_stave@berkeley.edu

Interdisciplinary Marxism Working Group
Contact: Annie McClanahan, ajmcc@berkeley.edu or Satyel Larson, satyel@berkeley.edu. To join the group’s email list, email ajmcc@berkeley.edu with “subscribe IMWG” in the subject line and your email address in the body.
The group meets monthly to discuss classic and contemporary Marxist works, and holds regular lectures and colloquia.
October 13 (Thursday), 6:00 pm, location TBA. The group will meet.
October 27 (Thursday), 6:00 pm, location TBA. The group will meet.

Music and Media
Contact: Mary Ann Smart, masmart@berkeley.edu

Muslim Identities and Cultures
Contact: Huma Dar, simurgh@gmail.com, or Fouzieyha
Towghi, ftowghi@berkeley.edu
This group explores Muslim identities and agencies from the standpoint of race, gender, nationalism, geopolitics and culture, especially concentrating on the discourses of “racialization” of Muslims taking place since 9/11.
October 25 (Tuesday), 5:30 pm, location TBA. Professor Minoo Moallem (Women’s Studies, San Francisco State University) will speak on her recent book, Between Warrior Brother and Veiled Sister: Islamic Fundamentalism and the Cultural Politics of Patriarchy.

New Directions in Oral History
Contact: Jess Rigelhaupt, jrigelha@library.berkeley.edu

Nineteenth Century and Beyond: British Cultural Studies
Contact: Julie Carr, carrjuli@aol.com, or Mark Allison, mallison@berkeley.edu
The group provides a forum for faculty and graduate students to discuss works-in-progress on the literature and culture of nineteenth-century Britain and its colonies. Pre-circulated papers investigate issues of aesthetics, politics, history, theory, and other current sites of academic focus,
with occasional forays into the late eighteenth and early twentieth centuries.
October 18 (Tuesday), 5:00 pm, 330 Wheeler Hall. Ayelet
Ben-Yishai (English) will speak. For a copy of the pre-circulated reading, please contact the group.

South Asian Modernities
Contact: Nikhil Govind, nikhilji@berkeley.edu, or Robert Raddock, raddock@gmail.com

Tourism Studies Working Group (TSWG)
Contact: Stephanie Hom Cary or Charles Carroll at tourism@berkeley.edu, or visit www.tourismstudies.org TSWG creates a forum for cross-disciplinary discussion of readings and work-in-progress on all aspects of tourism and travel. The group sponsors a monthly colloquium series, organized around key themes in tourism studies.
October 7-8 (Friday & Saturday), 9:00 am - 7:00 pm, Townsend Center for the Humanities, 220 Stephens Hall. The TSWG will sponsor an international conference, “On Voyage: New Directions in Tourism Theory.” There is no registration fee, and it is open to the public.

PUBLICATION ACTIVITIES • • •

Chronicle of the University of California
Contact: Carroll Brentano, (510) 643-9210, cbrentano@berkeley.edu
The Chronicle is an annual journal dedicated to the history of the University of California. Most back issues are available at book stores and by request to the above email address.

Clio’s Scroll
Contact: Natalie Mourra, cliosscroll@gmail.com, or visit http://www.ocf.berkeley.edu/~clios
Clio’s Scroll aims to provide undergraduates with the opportunity to publish historical works and to train staff members in the editorial process of an academic journal. Undergraduate history majors are encouraged to submit original research papers for publication each semester.

Critical Sense: A Journal of Political and Cultural Theory
Contact: Padma Rangarajan, padmar@berkeley.edu, or Matthew Baxter, mmrbaxter@berkeley.edu
Critical Sense is a semiannual interdisciplinary journal that publishes work in political and cultural theory by graduate students in the United States and internationally.

Harvest Moon
Contact: Alexander McCormmach, alexander@tunicate.org, or Jennifer Kelly, jenstrumental@gmail.com
Harvest Moon is a philosophy journal that publishes only undergraduate work and is completely run and edited by undergrads. The purpose of the journal is to expose to the greater community the best philosophical work that Berkeley undergrads have to offer. The journal prints once a year in the spring.

JAGNES (Journal of the Association of Grads in Near Eastern Studies)
Cyrus Zargar or Catherine Painter at editors@jagnes.com
JAGNES is a graduate student-run organization based in the Near Eastern Studies department. JAGNES publishes a semi-regular journal which includes graduate student articles covering a variety of topics related to the Near East. JAGNES strives to create a dialog between graduate students from many different departments and universities studying a wide range of topics which all relate to the Near East.

Lucero: A Journal of Iberian and Latin American Studies
Contact: Sarah Moody, smoody@berkeley.edu, or Victor Goldgel Carballo, hypervic@berkeley.edu
Lucero is the literary journal published by the graduate students of the Department of Spanish and Portuguese.

Qui Parle
Contact: Nima Bassiri or Sarah Wells at (510) 643-0737, quiparle@berkeley.edu
Qui Parle publishes bi-annually articles in literature, philosophy, visual arts, and history by an international array of faculty and graduate students.

Transit
Contact: Jennifer Zahrt, jzahrt@berkeley.edu or Gabe Trop gtrop@berkeley.edu
Transit, comprised of graduate students across disciplines, will meet bi-weekly to work towards publishing Transit, the first interdisciplinary journal dedicated to critical inquiry of travel, migration, and multiculturalism in the German-speaking world.

Forthcoming
Reconstructing Communities in Crisis

The Journal of Human Rights special issue features the collected papers of Communities in Crisis, a three-year interdisciplinary project under the auspices of the Townsend Center.

The collected papers strive to explain how societies deal with the aftermaths of war, civil unrest, political violence and gross human rights abuse through the involvement of NGOs. Graduate students and new academics approach the topic of national reconstruction from diverse perspectives and disciplines.

Journal of Human Rights (vol. 4 No. 2 April-June 2005), guest edited by Nancy Scheper-Hughes and Pamela Reynolds.

Doctor Atomic Goes Nuclear Film Series
October 5 - 30 • Pacific Film Archive

The Pacific Film Archive presents a fourteen-film series that looks back at the bomb and its concussive imprint on more than 50 years of cinema. See a complete schedule of films and events at www.bampfa.berkeley.edu.

100 SUNS (For Robert, Ernest and Edward’s Berkeley, 1945-1962)
Art Installation by Michael Light
October 3 - 8 • Adjacent to Memorial Glade, Doe Library

The Center for Photography at the Graduate School of Journalism presents 100 SUNS, a public artwork based on photographer and bookmaker Michael Light’s acclaimed 2003 book of the same name. Placing at the center of campus a series of previously classified American nuclear detonation photographs made by the military during the era of US atmospheric atomic testing, the installation reflects on the role of the University of California in the nuclear arms race and the Cold War.

The Consortium for the Arts & Arts Research Center is also sponsoring several courses in 2005-2006 on the arts and the Atomic Age.

For more information on all programs, please visit the Consortium for the Arts website at http://www.bampfa.berkeley.edu/bca/, email ucb_arts@berkeley.edu, or call (510) 642-7784.

Townsend Center Departmental Resident in English

Daniel Mason

Daniel Mason, Townsend Departmental Resident in the Department of English, is a novelist, medical doctor, and art critic. He is best known for his novel The Piano Tuner (Knopf, 2002). This best-seller follows a British piano tuner to Burma, where he has been commissioned to tune a rare grand piano in the jungle hideaway of an eccentric British surgeon-major. An exploration of late Victorian imperialism and aesthetics, set in a part of the world where Mason himself spent a year researching malaria, the novel was written when Mason was a twenty-six-year-old medical student. Mason has also conducted medical research in Brazil and Ecuador, and has published in popular and medical journals.

Making Theater with Ferruccio Soleri of Piccolo Teatro di Milano

Thursday, October 27
3:30 pm • Zellerbach Playhouse • Free

Ferruccio Soleri, the title character in Arlecchino, shares the secrets of his long-running role in Carlo Goldoni’s commedia dell’arte masterpiece. Developed in the 16th and 17th centuries by troupes of traveling performers, commedia dell’arte’s comedic, satirical, and improvisational conventions have survived and evolved over the centuries.

Organized by Cal Performances in association with the Department of Theater, Dance, and Performance Studies and the Consortium for the Arts.

Presented in conjunction with Piccolo Teatro di Milano’s production of Arlecchino, Servant of Two Masters at Cal Performances.

Trieste in California: An International Conference on the Legacy and Practice of Democratic Psychiatry

Wednesday - Thursday, October 5 - 6

The Trieste Mental Health Department is recognized by the World Health Organization as one of the world’s leading mental health practices, emphasizing community participation and deinstitutionalization of the mentally ill. The conference has the purposes of reacquainting us with the principles of deinstitutionalization and democratic psychiatry and of looking at the legacy of a truly incredible program that severely affected the mental health care policies in Europe, Brazil and the US. The ultimate aim is to consider the status of mental health policies in US and in California - especially with the passage of Proposition 63 - and to reflect on the challenges and opportunities ahead.

Wednesday, October 5

Opening reception
4:00 pm • Great Hall, Men’s Faculty Club

Thursday, October 6

9:00 am - 6:00 pm • Toll Room, Alumni House

Keynote speakers:
Dr. Giuseppe Dell’Acqua, Director, Trieste Mental Health Department
Dr. Bruno Norcio, neurologist and psychiatrist, Psychiatric Emergency Service, Trieste General Hospital

Human Rights Center
Ten Years Later: Remembering Ken Saro-Wiwa

Thursday, October 6

1:00 - 3:00 pm • Townsend Center, 220 Stephens Hall

Ken Saro-Wiwa, best known as the founder of MOSOP, the Movement for the Survival of the Ogoni People, posed a challenge and a threat to the Nigerian military dictatorship and to the oil giant, Royal Dutch/Shell, which had for three decades extracted oil from the Niger Delta, the homeland of the Ogoni people, leaving them with oil-polluted farm lands, rivers, and fishing creeks. Saro-Wiwa was hanged by the Nigerian government on November 10, 1995 despite international condemnation of the trial proceedings that led to his criminal conviction.

Panelists
Owens Wiwa, Ken Saro-Wiwa’s brother
Cindy Cohn, Legal Director, Electronic Frontier Foundation
Michael Watts, Director, Center for African Studies

Sponsored by the Human Rights Center, the Center for African Studies, the Institute for International Studies, and Amnesty International; in association with Price of Oil National Tour/Oil Change International.

Department of Linguistics

Workshop on Identity in Ellipsis

Saturday, October 8
9:30 am - 5:30 pm • 370 Dwinelle Hall

The Workshop on Identity in Ellipsis will provide a forum for researchers to share ellipsis data from the languages they study and to discuss the analytic issues arising from these data. More broadly, it will foster a dialogue about the identity constraints necessary to account for the various types of null anaphora in the world’s languages, in the ultimate hope of arriving at a synthesis of what constitutes identity in ellipsis.

Speakers
Marcela Depiante (Universidad del Comahue, Argentina), Jorge Hankamer (UC Santa Cruz), Maribel Romero (University of Pennsylvania), Kyle Johnson (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), Chris Kennedy (University of Chicago), Lotus Goldberg (Brandeis University), Jim McCloskey (UC Santa Cruz), Jason Merchant (University of Chicago), Sandy Chung (UC Santa Cruz)

Supported by the Department of Linguistics, the Dean of the Graduate Division, the Dean of Arts and Humanities, the Dean of Social Sciences, and the Townsend Center for the Humanities.

Free registration is required; please email angesw@berkeley.edu. Further information and a schedule can be found at http://socrates.berkeley.edu/~maziart/ellipsis-workshop/.

Consortium for the Arts

Yosemite in Time

Sunday, October 9
2:00 pm • Berkeley Art Museum Theater • Free

Some of the best-known images of American landscapes are the photographs of Yosemite taken by Ansel Adams, Carleton Watkins, and Eadweard Muybridge. As such, they have influenced how we think about the natural environment, conservation, and the American West. A multidisciplinary group of scholars and photographers will explore how contemporary rephotography reveals the evolution of our attitudes toward nature, and will consider how the aesthetics and meaning of Yosemite have changed since those Victorian and Modernist-era images were made.

Panelists include
Mark Klett, Art, Arizona State University
Margaretta Lovell, Art History
Carolyn Merchant, Environmental History, Philosophy, and Ethics
Rebecca Solnit, cultural historian and writer
Byron Wolfe, Communication Design, CSU Chico

The Space Between: The Cartographic Imagination of Japanese Modernism

Friday - Saturday, October 14 - 15
Friday • 9:30 am - 6:00 pm • 370 Dwinelle Hall
Saturday • 10:00 am - 3:30 pm • IEAS Conf. Rm., 2223 Fulton St.

The conference hopes to facilitate an interdisciplinary dialogue about the status and consequences of modernist aesthetics in the reconfiguration of space. The conference considers the relationships between modernist aesthetics and the geographic imagination, specifically exploring the technological and cultural-historical intersections of Japanese literary production, urban space, and the geographies of colonialism.

Speakers
Jeffrey Angles (Western Michigan University), Annika Culver (University of Chicago), Alisa Freedman (University of Oregon), Sarah Frederick (Boston University), William Gardner (Swarthmore College), Yuko Iida (Kobe University), Cary Karacas (UC Berkeley), Kim Kono (Smith College), Kyoko Omori (Hamilton College), Ken Oshima (Columbia University and The School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London), Mariko Shigeta Schimmel (Yale University), Sarah Teasley (University of Massachusetts), William J. Tyler (Ohio State University), Alicia Volk (Yale University), Angela Yiu (Sophia University)

CONFERENCES/SYMPOSIA

Comparative Literature

Agency In/And/Via Literature

Friday - Saturday, October 21 - 22

In the wake of theories that question the very possibility of right action, “agency” has become both a catchword and an idea we can no longer take for granted. Although “agency” seems a contemporary term, the idea’s antecedents share an expectation that human works and actions somehow engage social realities. We are seeking to understand the limits and possibilities of “agency” as manifest in literature and criticism.

Friday, October 21
Keynote speaker: Rei Terada, English and Comparative Literature, UC Irvine
1:30 – 6:00 pm • Townsend Center, 220 Stephens Hall

Saturday, October 22
Endnote address: William T. Vollman, author

Kazakh: Paintings by Saule Suleimenova
September 14 – October 20

Saule’s style, says art historian and professor A. Mukhambetova, “is deeply individual and instantly recognizable. Many influences make up its pedigree, including European expressionism, symbolism and dada, the decorative component of Central Asian miniatures, Kazakh ornamental style... One should add god-given talent and hard work by the soul and mind, a unique psyche, both sensitive and dynamic, plus a heightened reaction to falsity, both in life and in creative work.”

Saule uses a rare technique, wax engravings on paper and cardboard with acrylic, gouache, and pastel; she also works with oil on canvas. She has exhibited her work nationally and internationally since 1987 and has had solo exhibitions in the Ular, Minoy, ARK, and other galleries in Kazakhstan. Saule’s work is held in the Norton and Nancy Dodge Collection of Nonconformist Art from the Soviet Union at Rutgers University. Her works are shown in galleries and private collections in Kazakhstan, Russia, France, the U.K., the U.S., Germany, Spain, Austria, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, and other countries.

EXHIBITIONS

Berkeley Art Museum Exhibitions

MATRIX 218: Carla Klein – Scape
through November 6

The large-scale, spare but gestural works of Rotterdam-based painter Carla Klein hover around the margins of representation. In compositions that suggest uninhabited landscapes — open water, airports, highways to nowhere — Klein’s work straddles the boundaries between painting and photography, reality and fiction.

Taisho Chic: Japanese Modernity, Nostalgia, and Deco
through December 23

Taisho Chic explores the elegant fusion of modernity and tradition in 1920s and 1930s Japan in a stunning collection of paintings, textiles, and decorative arts from the Art Deco era. Japanese women were especially influenced by the lure of the Jazz Age and avidly consumed the new styles that were the fashion in Europe and America.

Meiji à la Mode: A Modernizing Japan, 1868-1912
through December 23

Complementing Taisho Chic, this exhibition highlights artistic responses to the social upheaval of a modernizing Japan in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Yosemite in Time
through December 23

Photographers Byron Wolfe and Mark Klett, along with the writer/historian Rebecca Solnit, spent countless weeks in Yosemite National Park, rephotographing historic images by Ansel Adams, Edward Weston, Carleton Watkins, and Eadweard Muybridge. The exhibition of their work, along with beautiful early photographs, looks at time as photography freezes it, represents it, and questions its nature.

The Cradle Will Rock
A Musical by Marc Blitzstein, Directed by Lura Dolas

“Music in the theatre is a powerful weapon,” Blitzstein wrote of his poignant musical about the Labor Movement. Cradle tells the story of workers trying to survive in a world of corporate corruption—a theme that resonates as strongly today as it did when the play first opened amidst the political turmoil and union strikes of the 1930s.

Zellerbach Playhouse
Oct. 7 (8 pm), Oct. 8 (8 pm), Oct. 9 (2 pm), Oct. 14 (8 pm), Oct. 15 (8 pm), Oct. 16 (2 pm)
The October 8 performance will be followed by a panel discussion with the directors and designers (See page 22 for details).

This production is made possible, in part, through the generous support of the Consortium for the Arts at UC Berkeley.

Tickets: $14 general admission, $10 UC faculty/staff, $8 students/seniors. For more information, call (510) 642-9925 or visit http://theater.berkeley.edu.

GROUP (Geballe Research Opportunities for Undergraduates Program). Grants to undergraduates and ladder faculty for the development of interdisciplinary undergraduate courses, apprenticeships, and teams.

Townsend/Mellon Discovery Pre-dissertation Fellowships (department nomination). Bring together students from a variety of disciplines at the early stages of their graduate careers and provide summer stipends of $5,000 for each of their first three summers of graduate study.

Townsend Fellowships. Support research of individual graduate students and assistant professors. Recipients receive a full-year fellowship of $18,000 or 50% course relief, and form a fellowship group together with several tenured faculty.

Postdoctoral Fellowships. One-year teaching and research appointment associated with the Strategic Working Groups. Fellows must have received the terminal degree in their discipline (Ph.D. or M.F.A.) from UC Berkeley no earlier than July 1, 2003, and no later than June 30, 2006, inclusive. Award: Full-year fellowship of approximately $33,000 plus benefits.

Initiative Grants. Bring together associate professors in humanities fields with a research counterpart from another discipline. Grantees devote a semester to a research project of their choosing, working closely with their counterpart.

Townsend Research Bridging Grant. Provides a $5,000 supplement to the regular COR Bridging Grant for tenured faculty undertaking research projects in new directions with curricular implications.

Townsend/Mellon Strategic Working Groups. Provide a framework for ladder faculty to create interdisciplinary curricular innovations in new research areas, intended to strengthen undergraduate and graduate teaching and research.

Townsend Departmental Residencies (department nomination). Intended to target persons who can enrich academic programs but who may not necessarily be academics. Provide a $10,000 stipend and travel expenses for a one-month stay. The Residencies are funded from the Avenali endowment.

Conference Grants. Support conferences or other larger-budget activities taking place at UC Berkeley.

Working Group Grants. Bring together faculty and graduate students from various fields and departments with shared research interests.
